Opel STX Concept

12/10/2026

STX stands for "Sports Tourer Experimental": a four-door electric shooting brake shown at Paris 2026 that previews the next Astra Sports Tourer. A boxy body, a vertically cut Kamm tail and an ultra-faceted body-coloured "Vizor" front with no grille, new vertical light elements and a redesigned, more angular logo echoing the shape of the car itself.

Opel and Vauxhall have not confirmed production; the British press suggests pricing will decide its success. For the exterior part, the STX is a clear case of the closed front: a large body-coloured decorated surface that must integrate sensors, light and ventilation without a visible mesh.

Sources: Wallpaper* · Auto Express