Maier was present last October at the K Düsseldorf trade fair (www.k-tradefair.es), together with more than 3,000 exhibitors from 56 countries who attended the most important trade fair on plastic and rubber in the world, a trading platform where the leading companies in the sector present their range of products at the highest international level.

The event, which this year was organised by the German plastics industry under the leadership of Plastics Europe Deutschland e.V. and Messe Düsseldorf, was focussed on mobility in all its aspects, with eight days of presentations on the latest developments in raw materials, ancillary materials, technical parts, machines, equipment and services for the plastic and rubber industry. These novelties were welcomed with great interest by the large number of professional visitors exceeding all the expectations of attendance, one of the largest of recent years.
