Maier receives PSA award for Industrial Quality

15/01/2014

French car manufacturing group PSA Peugeot Citroën has announced, for the ninth consecutive year, the awards for its best suppliers. These awards aim to acknowledge the companies that have developed a close relationship with the consortium and that have best responded to its demands.

Following recent recognition from Toyota, Maier has once again received an award from a client, highlighting the quality of the relationships that car manufacturers maintain with their suppliers.

Maier won in the Production Quality category, in recognition of the low number of quality incidents in 2012 as it delivered almost 14 million aesthetic parts to its 13 European production plants. This exceptional achievement is normally only within the reach of large multinationals such as Denso, Rehau or Bosch.

Now Maier can be included in this select club. So we're celebrating, and from Maier we would like to thank everyone for their contributions, efforts, commitment and ideas that made this achievement possible.
